

CODE OF CONDUCT

(Reviewed September 2015)

Preamble

The School believes that the only discipline of real significance is that which the individual imposes upon himself. This Code of Conduct aims to make each boy aware of the value of self-control, order and the need to cultivate a sense of responsibility for his own conduct and for the larger community of which he is a part.

The most important rule is that every boy should be thoughtful, considerate of others and use his common sense, in accordance with the school Philosophy and Mission, and where written rules do not cover specific events or actions.

This Code is written based upon the principles contained in the School Philosophy and Mission and must be read in conjunction with these two documents.

Boys High Values: "Tis here we learn to live"

While many of the values we choose to live by as a school are evident from the Philosophy and Mission, the following four values are considered to be the core values of the School:

Honour The quality of knowing and doing what is morally right including taking responsibility and owning up when asked to. People of honour are held in high esteem by the community as those who can be trusted to do what is right, despite peer and social pressures. Honour relates more to how other people perceive you.

Integrity Having strong moral principles that are consistently lived under all circumstances. People of integrity are honest and righteous, having an unwavering moral compass. Integrity is purely a personal quality and has to do with personal beliefs rather than perceptions of others.

Loyalty Being supportive and true to the school, what it stands for and to those in the school community. Recognising faults and constructively criticising does not imply disloyalty. Blind allegiance is discouraged but devotion, emotional attachment and a sense of belonging is nurtured.

Respect Having exceptionally good manners, so much so that this is commented upon by the school community, visitors to the school and the general public. Acting in a manner that is respectful to all, with consideration for others and their points of view. This includes respect for self, others, the school, the environment and those in authority.

A: General

1. Always be courteous and friendly. Greet everyone you see (teachers, cleaning staff, visitors and strangers) with a sincere greeting. "Good morning Ma'am" is considered more acceptable than a simple "Ma'am". Address all adults as "Sir" or "Ma'am".

3. Offer to assist any adult with directions or with any load they may be carrying. If needs be, accompany them to their destination.
